ZENO ZIT ZAPPER - DOES IT WORK?

FORT MYERS: Whether it's a small blemish or a huge breakout, acne can be embarrassing and expensive to treat. We found a product that promises to zap those zits in no time in the privacy of your own home. It's called Zeno, but does it work and is it worth the $150 price tag?

Sandra Delgrande has battled acne since she was 13-years-old.

"I've been on every antibiotic, topical cream, mask, procedure that you could go through," said Delgrande.

But she's now trying one of the latest techniques to fight pimples - Zeno.

The instructions are easy; a series of beeps and lights guide you through a two-and-a-half minute treatment cycle. Experts say the secret to Zeno is heat.

Once it's pressed against a pimple, Zeno's tip quickly heats up to about 120 degrees - destroying the bacteria that causes the blemish in the first place.

After just one treatment, Delgrande said she felt a difference.

"It left a red mark but you can't really feel the bump now," she said.

She's convinced it works. But Dermatologist Kimberly Davidson says not so fast.

"This is really only good for one specific stage of acne," said Davidson.

Dr. Davidson says Zeno is only effective on pimples that are still below the skin. The heat stops them from surfacing. But when it comes to actual breakouts - forget it.

"It does not work for white heads, black heads, cysts, or nodules," said Dr. Davidson.

While it's not the answer to clear skin, Zeno can be a quick fix for the occasional blemish. The key is to use it while the pimple is in its earliest stages.
